YANKEE DISABLED

TOWED BACK TO PIER

The Boston auxiliary fishing sch. Yankee, Capt. Coffin, which sailed for the fishing grounds, Thursday afternoon, was towed back to the Fish Pier, yesterday, having become disabled when she was 12 miles east-southeast from Graves Light, through the breaking of a piston.

FISHERMAN ON

DRAGGER INJURED

Manuel Carreo one of the crew of the dragger Magellan, tied up at the Pew wharf last night, was struck in the side of the head with a belaying pin and quite a wound caused by the blow. Carreo with others of the crew were warping the vessel into her berth, when a rope turned about the pins slipped causing the pin to jump out of its resting place and strike Carreo in the head. The rope also caught him around the wrist and burned that member quite badly. Carreo was taken to the hospital for treatment.

Signs for Trip.

Grounded for a month for spinning his airplane over the Boston airport, but with the urge to adventure still strong with him, Narada Coomeraswamy, 19-year-old English boy, son of a curator at the Boston Art Museum, yesterday signed up for a jaunt to Georges Banks. With his sole experience on the bounding billows gained from sailing on the Swiss lakes last year, Narada, nevertheless, looked forward eagerly to the next 30 days on a trawler.
